Littlechap

“Stop the world I want to get off” is a musical with a tragic depiction of the circle of life where the main character Littlechap describes his life experiences. He spends almost his entire life looking for something better, only realising too late in his old age that he had what mattered all along.

The circle of life flows from birth, growth and eventual death, followed by renewal. In the Bible, we see the significance God places on each new life. He said to the prophet Isaiah “I formed you in the womb: I am the Lord, the Maker of all things.” Then we grow physically, spiritually and emotionally. The Bible encourages us to grow in faith and wisdom as well. The apostle Paul wrote “God, who began a good work in you, will carry it on to completion.”

Throughout our existence, we face times of change. Some good, some bad but all contribute to shape who we are. Knowing Jesus is a moment of change! Paul exclaimed “Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, the new creation has come: The old has gone, the new is here!”

Life’s trials can feel overwhelming, but the Bible assures us that God walks alongside us through every hardship. It’s a part of the circle of life that ultimately helps us become who we are meant to be. The circle eventually closes as we inevitably come to the end of life. Death is a reality that we all will face one day but in Jesus there is hope and assurance of eternal life. Too many people are like Littlechap and leave life’s greatest decision until it’s too late.
